A very warm welcome to the third edition of our magazine, I am incredibly excited to share this with you, as every edition it really does go from strength to strength.

This is a bumper edition, featuring more projects than previous editions and we have also received the support of some of our wonderful partners. We were very proud that they were just as excited to be involved in the magazine as we are.

Our design team have really gone from strength to strength and they are very excited to be sharing their designs and projects with you,. We introduce you to the team in our Designer Profile article. Inside this bumper edition you will once again see some of our truly exceptional projects that we have undertaken over the past year. Kitchen Trends

Coco Chanel, famously stated that fashion changes, but style endures. As much as we would like to believe we live by this mantra, we are our own worst enemies for wanting to follow fashion trends. The quandary of how to select furniture and fixings that will not need replacing in a few years is real. However, we are now in an age where the trend is 'you be you' keep your space true to yourself and it will be timeless.

Homeowners are increasingly seeking personalized and customized design elements in their kitchens. Moving forward we may see a rise in customizable cabinetry and storage solutions, as well as personalized colour and material choices to reflect individual tastes and lifestyles. Industrial-inspired design elements, such as exposed brick, concrete, and steel, are likely to continue to be popular, as are natural materials like stone, marble, and wood. These materials can add texture and visual interest to the kitchen, creating a warm and inviting atmosphere.

Oversized handles - these add a real sense of drama to a usually pared back space. Although sleek clean lines, are still incredibly popular, there is definitely a renewed appreciation for hardware. Hardware companies have created dramatic and unique designs and textures to cabinet handles - with a mix of leather, acrylic, wood, and stone. These handles were a bespoke design by Wood Marble & White to create the perfect companion to the kitchen design.

Layers of black are very en-vogue, and the use of a black benchtop is very eyecatching. These dark benchtops are a powerful pairing with the dark cabinetry and gives additional depth to the kitchen. The dark stone will age beautifully with the kitchens and really enhance the overall look and design of the space. The leather finish really celebrates the stones natural beauty
